School budget calls for 20.5% tax hike

Pay raises account for big chunk

By ALISON ALOISIO

SAD44 taxpayers can expect a 20 percent tax hike if they approve next year's school budget.

Faced with the choice of increasing taxes or cutting teachers and technology, the School Board voted Monday to ask voters to support a $7,411,527 general fund budget. That figure is 8.27 percent higher than this year's $6,845,356.

But a loss in state subsidy and tuition revenue will mean a 20.86 percent average increase in the local assessment. The state's share of the budget will drop from 36 percent this year to 31 percent for FY '96.

Supt. Ron Jenkins said earlier in the budget process that he did not think voters would support another increase like last year's 12 percent hike in the local assessment.

But in recommending the $7.4 million figure Monday he said, "I believe it's necessary, to provide the educational opportunities to students in the manner the board is accustomed to providing. I realize the increase is great. I believe the board has done its job. It's now up to the citizens to make the final decision."

The weighted vote on the budget was 687 in favor, 184 opposed. Brad Payne of Greenwood and Merton Brown and Fran Head of Bethel voted in opposition.

"I cannot, with any way to be able to sleep, support this budget. We're worrying about people with $50,000 houses. I think we should also worry about industries with two- or three-million dollar assessments," Brown said.

He also said the salary increases were too much. About 38 percent of the increase to the gross budget came from raises, according to Jenkins.

Payne said, "I support the concepts of what we're working for, but that's a big increase."

In voting for the budget, Margaret Head of Woodstock said, "I think it's unfortunate the state picked a time to cut $225,000 when we need to add to our computer technology. I don't think there's any fluff in this budget. I'm also concerned that we're taking money out of surplus," she said.

GAMM II building may go back on sale

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The former GAMM II property in Bethel's Airport Industrial Park may soon be on the market again.

The property, a 4.7-acre lot and a 21,000-square-foot light industrial building, has been leased since 1992 by Green & McGinn screen printers.

The lease, however, expired on June 30, and there appears to be some chance it will not be renewed.

Eric Paul, owner of the printing business, said he recently had to lay off an additional 14 employees, bringing the total number of people employed there to seven. At its peak last year the business employed 46 people, Paul said.

Paul blamed a weak economy for the move, but said he hoped the layoffs would be temporary and that all those laid off could be back on the payroll by September.

"It looks grim now," he said, "but we've got tremendous things on the horizon."

Paul's lease on the GAMM II property included an option to purchase it for $128,500, but that option expired last year.

Paul said Tuesday that he still hopes to eventually purchase the building.

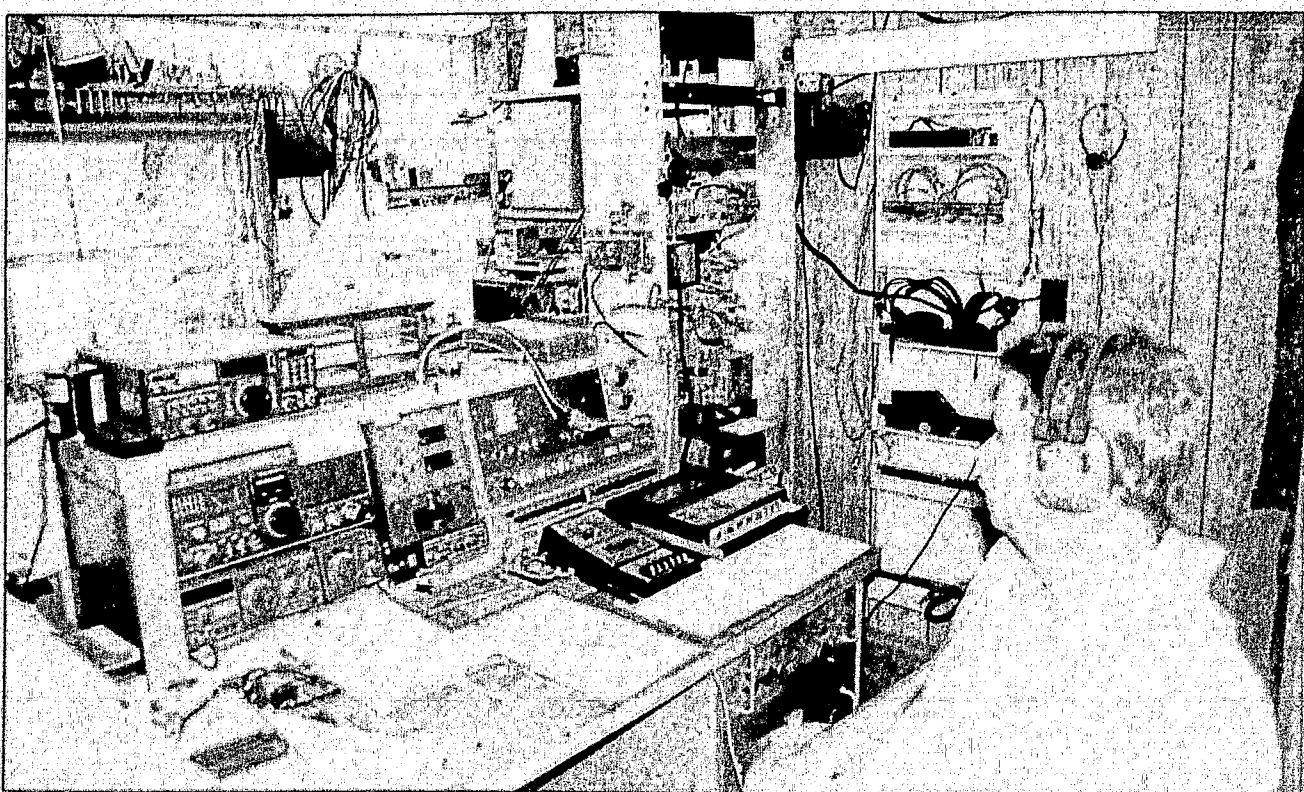

Another building owned by Paul, the Green & McGinn Tourist Trap on Route 2 in West Bethel, is open for business but has been up for sale for many months.

The town purchased the GAMM II property, also in 1992, for $140,500.

The purchase was hotly debated at the time, with some opponents contending "the town does not belong in the retail trade business," and others arguing that the property would become a financial albatross on the town.

One local real estate agent claimed that he had lined up a private buyer who was ready to bring in $200,000 into town.

CHRISTIAN, MILITIA, PATRIOT, BUT NOT WCMP

Local 'patriot' off the grid but on the air

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Greg Bluhm sees himself as a patriot, but not a paranoid patriot.

"If I had to worry about ninja-suited ATF agents, I'd already be dead meat," he said -- even as a military electronic surveillance helicopter roared into the air from the runway at Col. Dyke Airport, only a few hundred feet from the two trailers that are home to Bluhm, his wife and daughter, and his Christian/militia/patriot radio station.

But if he is not paranoid, Bluhm is still very worried -- about what he sees as Congressional erosion of Americans' Constitutional rights, and about the increasing number of foreign military troops now stationed in the United States.

There is, he believes, "a concerted effort to turn the United States into a collectivist state, like the former Soviet Union."

To fight that effort, Bluhm, an unemployed electronics technician, has launched his radio station.

The unlicensed but legal (because of its low power) station can be found at 88.7 on the FM dial, broadcasting from 6 to 11 p.m.

'I've built a soapbox for the people of Bethel. Is there anyone out there who wants to use it?'

The station's bill-of-fare currently consists for the most part of tapes and satellite downloads, but Bluhm hopes to encourage various types of local programming.

"I've built a soapbox for the people of Bethel," he said. "Is there anyone out there who wants to use it?"

The station broadcasts from the first of Bluhm's two trailers, located in the woods between the airport runway and the industrial park.

Electronics equipment and tools fill the main room of the trailer. Outside, an array of antennas, of various shapes and sizes, reaches into the air.

One shortwave wire antenna extends horizontally for 700 feet through the canopy of leaves overhead. (How do you string a wire for 700 feet through the treetops? "A slingshot and fishing line," Bluhm explains.)

Red, white and blue... and green

But for all the electronics, one essential component of most radio stations is missing -- the power line bringing in commercially supplied electricity.

For more than a year Bluhm's family has been living "off the grid," with their power provided by photovoltaic cells, batteries and a generator.

"But we've got plenty of power," Bluhm said, both for the family's needs and for the radio station.

"Unlike most of the people in the patriot movement -- or people who say they are patriots -- I'm an environmentalist," Bluhm said.

He proudly displayed a summer water heater made from an old refrigerator, the tank from a commercial water heater, lots of insulation, and a solar collector made in part from old tin cans painted black.

"There's easier things to use than tin cans," Bluhm said, "but we've got to find something to do with them."

Such self-sufficiency has come in handy -- since Bluhm readily admits that times have been tough economically.

He currently operates his own business, installing satellite dishes and other electronics. "When I was

Rain does little to ease fire danger

By ALISON ALOISIO

No rest for the weary.

The forest fire danger may reach the "extreme" rating this week -- not good news for already over-worked fire departments and forest services.

Maine Forest Service spokesman Jim Downie said rain over this past weekend did little, for the most part, to alleviate dry conditions in the woods.

He said while some areas received locally heavy downpours of about an inch, others got nothing.

"And one inch in a short time, like you get in a thunderstorm, isn't as good as a slow, steady rain. It just runs off and doesn't penetrate the ground," he said.

He said the varying rainfall amounts will probably confuse the public on what the fire danger is, and urged people to assume it's still very high.

He said some areas may be looking at a Class 5 (extreme) fire danger warning this week, if temperatures get up to 80 or 90 and the wind blows.

Factors that figure into the rating include dryness, temperature, wind, and fuel moisture (dryness of wood and brush on and under the ground).

"Precipitation is about three inches below normal now," he said.

Downie said most small town fire departments stopped issuing burn permits about two weeks ago.

Meanwhile, the forest service has directed railroads to patrol behind their trains to check for brush fires caused by sparks.

Such a fire burned 22 acres in Greenwood on June 30.

A White Mountain National Forest spokesman said Friday that a drought situation currently exists, unusual for this early in the summer. He said conditions haven't been like this since 1985.

"And we're pushing drier conditions than that," said David Govatski, WMNF assistant fire management officer.

He said it had been well over three weeks since the last significant rain in New Hampshire, prompting Gov. Steve Merrill to give the order to stop issuing of fire permits until further notice.

"It would take a couple of inches of rain to change that," Govatski said.

He said the order does not affect campfires in WMNF campgrounds, but he still recommends the use of camp stoves rather than open fires.

He said that stands of spruce, pine, and fir trees are particularly dry, as well as leaf litter on the ground.

IT WASN'T THAT HOT--but it sure felt like it. And more is on the way. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Mollyockett Day brings plenty of fun things to do

Bethel's annual Mollyockett Day celebration will be held this Saturday, July 15.

The historic Bethel Common will be the center of the celebration, with music, food, lumberjack competition, frog jumping contest, games, arts and crafts, and a booth to sell Mollyockett Day T-shirts and tickets for the second annual Great Duck Race.

The Mollyockett Day Classic Race and Walker's Event will begin the day at 8:30 a.m. when children 14 and younger will compete in the one-mile Fun Race. At 9 a.m. the 5-mile run and 2-and-one-half mile walker's event will begin.

Many age group breakouts, as well as a prize raffle, ensures lots of prizes and giveaways. The race is sponsored by Key Bank of Maine, Sunday River Ski Resort, DeMarco Chiropractic, United States Cellular, Pepsi and Bonanza Pottery. Registration may be done prior to the day by calling 824-2282.

The first 150 registrants are guaranteed a commemorative Mollyockett Day T-shirt or tank top.

The parade up Main Street will begin at 11 a.m.

Frog Jumping Contest

The 13th Annual Western Oxford

County Frog Jumping Contest will take place at 2 p.m. across from the Bethel Common.

Children of all ages and frogs of all shapes and sizes are invited to enter. There is a small entry fee. Cash prizes will be awarded for the frogs that jump the longest distance in three consecutive jumps. A prize is also given to the frog jumping the shortest distance.

The frog jumping contest is a very popular event. Organizers ask that participants be kind to the frogs while they are under their care. To ensure safe return to a pond, there will be a collection bucket available at the race to put frogs in.

The frog-jumping contest is sponsored by the Bethel Area Health Center and is coordinated by Pete and Vicki Rackliffe.

Duck race

Later in the day, spectators and ticket holders can enjoy the second annual Great Duck Race, which will be held at 4 p.m. on the Sunday River at the Artist's Covered Bridge.

Ducks will be launched a few hundred feet above the bridge, to race to the finish under the bridge. Duck chances are $5 each at the duck booth on the Common, up until 3:30 p.m.

The grand prize winner will receive a 14-foot Lincoln Canoe, donated by L.L. Bean of Freeport. Other prizes include a season pass to Sunday River Ski Resort, a season pass to Ski Mt. Abram, a two-day weekend Get-A-Way at the Sugarbush Inn in Vermont, a whitewater-rafting trip for two with Downeast Whitewater Co., a Family Day Pass for four to Attitash Fun Park, overnight lodging and dinner for two at the Summit Hotel, golf and dinner for two at the Bethel Inn & Country Club, scenic flight for two over Bethel with Bethel Air Service, $40 gift certificate for dinner at L'Auberge Country Inn, dinner for two at the Madison, $30 gift certificate to the Angry Dog Pub, gift certificate to True North, $25 gift certificate to Wild Rose, gift certificate to the Hometown Bakery, two Sunday River Mountain Bike Park tickets, lunch for two at Skidder's Deli, gift certificate to Jade's Salon, gift items from Sunday River Brewing Co. and two banana splits at Breat's.

Those people buying duck chances do not need to be present at the race to win.

The day will conclude with fireworks, scheduled for dusk behind the Bethel Inn.

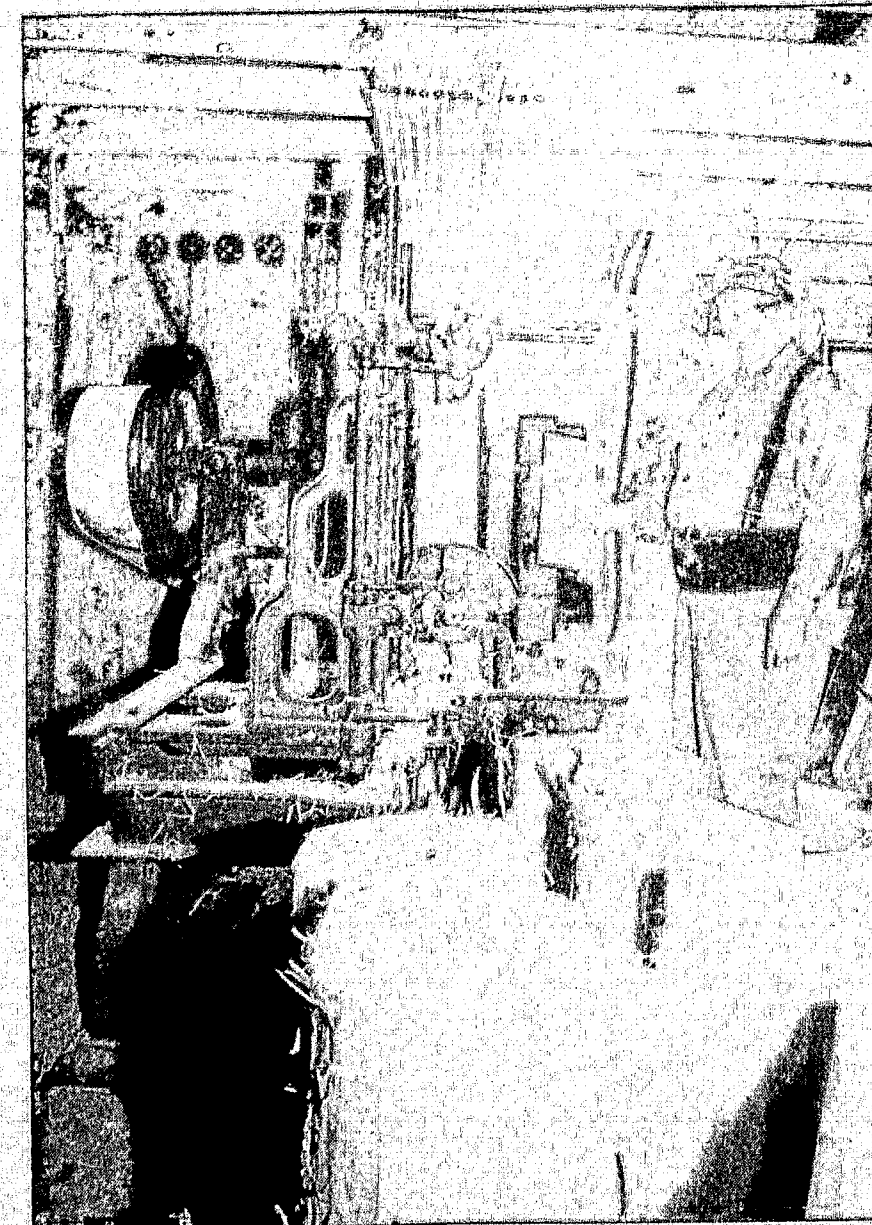

The event will be sponsored by Sunday River Ski Resort and the Bethel Inn.

SCHOOL PETITION DRIVE ALIVE

To the Editor:

There will be petitions circulated in the towns of Andover, Bethel, Greenwood, Newry and Woodstock to request that the Board of Directors of SAD44 cause the school budget to be voted upon by referendum rather than by a district meeting.

If enough signatures (10 percent of the voters in the last gubernatorial election) are obtained, the petitions will be presented to the School Board and that board in turn will notify the municipal officials who will then prepare an article to be placed on the ballot at the next statewide election.

The municipal officials must be notified at least 45 days prior to our next statewide election, which is on Nov. 1. At that time we will have the opportunity to mark our ballots for or against voting on the future school budgets by written votes at our usual polling places.

We urge everyone to vote "Yes" on this question. Many towns have already availed themselves of this alternative procedure.

We will have updates of the progress of this initiative.

RED TOP WAS TOPS

To the Editor:

I'm saddened by the closing of the Red Top Truck Stop, where I have enjoyed good food, good company, and a great bunch of people. I wish them all well in their future endeavors, and I want to thank them for their many kindnesses and their pleasant and caring attitude. It will be difficult, or impossible, to find a place in Bethel where one can find a smiling face, a hot cup of coffee, and breakfast at 5:30 in the morning when those of us who start work at this hour are beginning our day. It is a shame that the people of C.N. Brown don't feel the same way, for if they did, perhaps Esther and her crew would still be there for us. It is sad that corporate America has replaced home-town America.

'OFFICIALS' SEEK COFFEE SPOT

To the Editor:

As of Sunday, July 16, we will be looking for a place to have coffee and unofficial town meetings when Red Top Truck Stop closes. As unofficial town officials, we meet every day at 5 a.m. and again at 3 p.m. These meetings usually take about two hours.

Any coffee shop wishing to accommodate these meetings should place an ad in The Citizen -- listing discounts offered.

I LOVE THIS COUNTRY

To the Editor:

One of the sayings I have most often heard from kids today is, "I don't love this country."

Considering the anxiety we live in and the country we live in, what can they do? I often wonder what these same children would be saying if they lived in a country where they had no value at all. Where there are no great big steps that their parents waited in line for. Where they have a bed with three or more other children, in an apartment with all their relatives, because there is no other housing. Where they cannot read certain books, including the Bible, because someone else tells them they can't.

I love this country and what it stands for. I may not always agree with changes that come about, but I have the freedom to voice those changes or I have the right to follow the crowd and to stick to my values. And I have hope in my future and the future of my children.

School Budget

The board included $150,000 to upgrade computer offerings, and took $75,000 out of surplus to apply to the budget.

The board set July 31 as the date of the district budget meeting. A public hearing will be held July 20. Both meetings will be held in the Telstar auditorium, beginning at 7 p.m.

NOVA funding change OK'd

In other business Monday, Haden informed the board that a change in the NOVA funding formula should go into effect in FY'97, having received the approval of a majority of NOVA member municipalities or districts.

Using this year's budget as an example, the change would save SAD44 about $50,000.

The board also approved Melissa Poirer as Telstar High School's new biology teacher.

New Bethel board member Linda Gamble was sworn in Monday. Absent from the meeting were Newry director Debbie Gilbert and Andover director Brad Thibodeau. Ray Harrington of Greenwood left before the budget vote was taken.

Ethel Bisbee School is vandalized

By ALISON ALOISIO

Stars of David and the words "Satan was here" and "Suicide" were spray-painted on the Ethel Bisbee building Monday night.

District maintenance workers Cindy Walker and Larry Coffin discovered the vandalism when they checked the building Tuesday morning. Walker said part of the door to the Adult Education complex had been painted, along with the side of the building.

The Oxford County Sheriff's Dept. was called to investigate.

MAKE HAY WHILE THE SUN SHINES goes the saying, and there was plenty of sunshine for farmers last week. No rain and high temperatures combined to make the fire danger in nearby woods high. Thunder showers over the weekend provided spotty relief, but the Maine Forest Service is advising people to assume conditions are still extremely dry everywhere. Here, rolls of hay sit in the field at the Blake Farm in Bethel.

Gamm II

No financial loss seen

If the building is now to be vacated and must be re-leased, the town does not stand to lose any money on the deal, Henley claimed, even when lost taxes (had the property been in private hands) are factored in.

Paul's lease was for $22,800 a year, plus $7,200 in lieu of taxes. The town also received a $100,000 Farmers Home Administration grant to go toward the purchase price.

The FmHA grant would have to be repaid only in the event the building is sold, in which case FmHA would be entitled to a percentage of the purchase equal to its contribution (roughly 2/3).

"The town has made its money many times over," Henley said. "We'll be fine even if the building stands vacant for a few years."

The Gamm II building was built in 1985 by a company which specialized in women's sportswear.

At one time as many as 50 people were employed there, but in 1990 Gamm II went out of business, using cheaper foreign labor.

Lot split proposed

At tonight's (Wednesday) regular meeting of the Bethel Planning Board, the Airport Industrial Park Committee will seek an advisory opinion on a proposal to split off a 1.3 acre parcel of the Gamm II lot.

According to AIP chairman Ron Kendall the proposal is being made in an effort to break the impasse in negotiations between Bethel Station developers and Oxford West Telephone Company, which owns a 62-acre parcel over which the proposed Bethel Station Parkway would pass.

Oxford West has expressed interest in swapping for other lots at the AIP, but Kendall said the committee was not interested, largely because the telephone company would not be creating any new jobs there. "They'll just be housing poles," Kendall said.

If the smaller parcel is taken from the Gamm II lot, there would still be plenty of room for future expansion of the building there, Kendall said.

Questions of road cuts and frontage still need to be answered, and any such alteration of the AIP plan would also need the approval of the state Department of Environmental Protection.

If the proposal is approved, the smaller parcel will be sold to either the Bethel Station developers or Oxford West. The price is expected to be $25,000 Henley said.

Maine's Legislature Treads Water

By MIKE BROWN

When the Maine Legislature finished its session in Cinderella-slipper fashion nearly stroking the midnight pumpkin, there were plenty of glass slipper size figures for the public to ponder. In fact, some $3.5 billion dollars worth.

But what was the sense of the 117th Legislature? Probably a profound sense of incompleteness which, after all, is the addiction of politics in that potential legislators can say, "Hey, I can do better than that."

All legislative bodies begin with individualistic, independent thought. Once assembled and then managed by the bureaucracy they become a fraternity, an inside family of surrogates quite removed from the public which sent them to do provincial favors.

And so it was with the 117th. But with the added inexperience of leadership, Independent Gov. Angus S. King, Jr., 51, had never before held public office. Republican Sen. Jeffrey Butland, 44, had served two lackadaisical terms in the House and one in the Senate, but fate, luck and a recount handed him a surprise Senate presidency.

Democrat House Speaker Dan A. Gwadosky, 41, was the most experienced, serving 16 continuous years beginning when he was just 23 years of age. But Gwadosky was in his first full term speaker-ship, having replaced John Martin, who was ousted in February 1994, as result of a ballot tampering scandal involving Martin's chief of staff.

The politically equal but layered triumvirate cack of leadership, frosted with nearly half a freshman legislature, had a hard time coming together.

The media spent an inordinate amount of time accommodating the new governor (one of its own) rather than the legislature (until glass slipper time) which alienated the legislature, so it pretty much ignored the chief executive. It was the compromising, especially in the House, and not the governor's waffling leadership, that prevented a state shut-down.

The sense of accomplishment was disappointing despite the post session media spin by the state bureaucracy and the governor. There was no meaningful welfare reform of a virtual city of some 2,700 employees within a state spending well over $1 billion a year of public money for questionable welfare services. Maine ranks fourth in the nation for per-capita state and local government welfare expenditures.

Except for some shuffling about of programs, Maine welfare, like Maine worker's comp. payments (in top five of nation) need a good dose of reform salts.

Legislature argued education have and have-not formulas for nearly six months before deciding where $1 billion or so would be gerrymandered. It was carved, as always, to the political strength of the state, which is south. Education and welfare are the two giant gorillas of Maine, and they sleep with whomever provides the coziest nest.

The Maine lobster industry was inoculated with a terminal bureaucracy virus which was formulated by the governor and his new marine resources commissioner to break down the immune independence defense of lobstermen. The state and federal fish-erats bugs will eventually consume the carcass.

Legislators passed an incredibly huge casserole of bond issues for public pondering this fall. The public is being asked to accept $95.8 million (plus interest) of new debt because the legislators didn't have the guts to say no to the bureaucracy which requested it. Hopefully the public has more sense than the legislature.

There was legislature dabbling and pecking into most other closets of state government but no surprises. Maine's $3.5 billion headache found no relief with the 117th's placebo.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

The third annual Bethel Historical Society Community Picnic was held on the Fourth of July with about 250 people in attendance. Perfect summer weather was again the case.

Jim Rose began the festivities with a patriotic monologue that captured some of the flavor of the period 219 years ago. Following presentation of the colors by the Mundt-Allen Post American Legion Color Guard and the playing of the national anthem, picnickers enjoyed the music of the Portland Brass Quintet for the next couple hours. The appearance of the quintet was made possible with the support of the Maine Arts Commission, the Mahopus Arts Council, the Bethel Rotary, the Mundt-Allen Post #81, John and Fumiko Head, Mildred Thomas, Richard and Jane Hosterman, Kenneth and Gwyneth Bohr, Edna York, Florine Bowden, Richard and Doris Valentine, Walter and Carol Hatch, Sunday River Skiway, Carolyn Nygren, Carol Nielsen, Norman and Joan Putnam, Margaret Joy Tibbitts, Robert and Bethia Newmarker, Robert and Nancy Chadbourne and the Hall Memorial Fund of the Bethel Historical Society.

The annual picnic of the Bethel Historical Society was held on July 6 and was preceded by a tour of the Town of Greenwood by society member and longtime Greenwood resident Stephen T. Seames. A number of important sites were included prior to arriving at the summer home of Ernest and Beverly Casarra on Patch Mountain with its commanding view of the surrounding countryside. Much appreciation was extended to Mr. Seames for his tour and to the Casarras for their hospitality in hosting the group.

Following the picnic, a brief business meeting was held, presided over by Society Vice President Walter Hatch. He announced that the next meeting would be held on Aug. 3 at the Dr. Moses Mason House's meeting room.

Briefly

Appeal vote next week

GREENWOOD--The town Board of Appeals has scheduled a meeting for Friday, July 21, at which it is expected to rule on a variance request from Carlton and Lenora Cole. The Coles are seeking permission to build on a 1.1-acre lot on Twitchell Pond. The lot, however, is so narrow that either the 50-foot road setback or the 100-foot shoreland setback would have to be waived if the parcel is to accommodate both a dwelling and a subsurface-disposal system. At a public hearing on the matter last week, attorney Dana Hanley of South Paris argued that if the Coles were not allowed to build on the property, they would in effect be deprived of all "reasonable return" on it. He also noted that until last year the Coles had been paying taxes on a buildable lot. The Appeals Board members decided to discuss the matter with the town attorney before rendering a ruling. Next Friday's meeting will be held in the Town Office, beginning at 9 a.m.

Community Concepts to aid renters

SOUTH PARIS--Community Concepts Inc. of South Paris has been selected by the Maine State Housing Authority to handle $2.5 million in annual federal rental assistance. The certificate and voucher program will provide assistance for about 600 low-income renter households in Androscoggin, Oxford, Franklin, and Somerset counties. Tenants with a certificate or voucher can use them in any apartment in which the owner agrees to participate in the program, the rent is within program limits, and the apartment meets housing-quality standards. Tenants generally pay 30 percent of their income towards the rent. The certificates or vouchers pay the difference between the tenant payment and the actual rent.

Curfew for minors proposed

BRIDGTON--A proposed curfew ordinance could result in fines for both minors and their parents. The ordinance is intended to protect younger children from older ones. Minors who violate the curfew would be required to perform five hours of community service and be fined up to $50 for the first offense. Each subsequent offense would result in 10 hours of community service and a fine up to $100. Curfew hours for youths 17 and younger would be 11:01 p.m. until 6 a.m. the following day. Parents or guardians could be fined $50 for the first offense and $100 for the second. A hearing on the ordinance was scheduled for last night.

Local horse supreme champion

WATERFORD--A 10-year-old Welsh Cob stallion from the Waterford Study stable was named supreme champion at the Saratoga International Classic horse show at Saratoga Raceway in New York. Nesselciffe Sunrise is owned by India Haynes. The Welsh Cob breed is growing in popularity in North America, with about 1,000 across the U.S. The breed is popular for carriage driving and riding and is known for its hardiness, spirit, and high-stepping trot.

Appalachian Club a business?

GORHAM, N.H.--The Appalachian Mountain Club is running into trouble as it faces a normally routine application to continue running its hut and trail system in the White Mountain National Forest. Local officials and a hard-line environmental group accuse the AMC of becoming a big business and are fighting its application. Some local officials say the AMC has gone too far in its advocacy of environmental issues. And the group North Woods maintains the eight remote AMC huts, which attract 80,000 hikers a year, are degrading the White Mountains' fragile landscape. Andrew Fulender, executive director of the 64,000-member organization, said he expected people to be concerned but did not expect a battle.

Androscoggin Chamber on Internet

LEWISTON--Prospective businesses can now get information on tax rates and housing costs from the Androscoggin County Chamber of Commerce's Internet Homepage. The Homepage is aimed at gaining exposure for the region and its members. It also offers regional data on subjects like the economy, health care, education, arts and community happenings, the 1995 summer calendar, recreation, and community profiles. Gov. Angus King would like to see such use expand and help the state make up for the disadvantages of its sprawling geography. State government has appeared recently on the World Wide Web. Offerings include information on state agencies, weather, job listings, tourism, and access to the governor. Maine is among only a few states that have well-developed home pages. The other two are Washington and North Carolina.

E-mail the Democrats

AUGUSTA--The Maine Democratic Party last week joined a number of state Democratic parties on-line. A new E-mail address (MAINEDM@aol.com) will allow Democrats across the state to communicate easily with state headquarters. Also last week, the Democratic National Committee unveiled a Homepage on the World Wide Web. The Homepage will allow Internet users access to DNC publications and press releases, audio and video clips, links to other Democratic Internet destinations, and opportunities to interact with the Democratic Party. The address is <http://www.democrats.org>. The Maine Democratic Party is in the process of developing a Homepage as well.

Computers do in Smith Corona

WASHINGTON--The Smith Corona typewriter company filed for bankruptcy last week, saying personal computers had sent electric typewriter sales plunging. The company had stopped making manual typewriters in 1983. Manuals that are left are collectors' items. The modern typewriter was patented in 1868. Six years later, gunmakers E. Remington & Sons put that first model on the market. Mark Twain bought a Remington and was the first author to submit a typewritten book manuscript for publication.

Students adjusting to MEA's

AUGUSTA--Maine's fourth-graders demonstrated an increased ability to respond to open response questions on this year's Maine Educational Assessment (MEA) tests, according to education commissioner Wayne Mowatt. Seventy-five percent of all fourth-grade students scored at the basic level or above in reading, compared to 43 percent when benchmarking for the new open response tests was completed last year. Mowatt noted that a similar gain occurred in mathematics performance, with 62 percent of students scoring at the basic level or above, compared to 38 percent in 1994. Mowatt said the new tests show high levels of reliability and stability when compared with prior MEA tests. The tests were given during the last week in January.

Woman bitten by bat

AUBURN--An Auburn woman faces a month of shots after being bitten by a rabid bat last week. Teresa Flisuk found the bat in her apartment house. She tried to pick up the animal, which was clinging to the seat of a bicycle parked in the hallway. After she was bitten, police took the bat to the state Department of Health, where it tested positive for rabies. Flisuk said she was aware that bats can carry rabies, but it simply didn't occur to her when she was confronted with one.

Build a lego spacecraft

Lego bricks are popular around the world. Now they're aiming for outer space. To increase youth interest in science and space, Space Center Houston and the Lego toy company have created a model design and building contest for children ages 5 to 12. The Lego Space Challenge invites them to build their vision of space stations, space craft, satellites or space-themed inventions out of Lego bricks. The contest winner will receive a trip for four to see a space shuttle launch at Cape Canaveral, Fla., and a trip to Space Center Houston, where he/she will participate in the ultimate long-distance call -- a live uplink to the orbiting shuttle crew. Prizes will also be given to 100 second-place and 200 third-place winners. Entry forms are available in toy stores through Dec. 31.

Allen graduates from police academy

Bethel Police Officer Gene Allen is now a certified law enforcement officer, having completed a 12-week course at the Maine Criminal Justice Academy in Waterville.

Allen studied topics including criminal and traffic law, domestic violence, firearms, sexual assault, first aid, crime scene processing and emergency vehicle operation. Chief Dale Bellman said Allen was first in his class of about 40 officers in firearm proficiency.

The state requires officers to take the course within a year of their employment. The Oxford County Sheriff's Dept. covered for Allen in his absence. "We're very glad to have him back," Bellman said.

G'wood to hold special Town Meeting

By ALISON ALOISIO

Greenwood voters will be asked at the special Town Meeting on July 25 to OK $4,250 for a hopper/sander.

Road commissioner Alan Seames requested the article at last week's selectmen's meeting. The hopper/sander would be used on a recently purchased one-ton plow truck.

"We could do the short roads with it, instead of sending out the big trucks. It would save wear on the big trucks, and the mileage is better -- 14 miles to the gallon instead of three or four," he said.

Selectmen are proposing to take $2,000 out of the highway equipment account, as well as use $2,250 from the equipment reserve account, for the purchase.

Selectmen also firmed up the amount of money they will request at the meeting for the town manager search. In addition to $3,000 for consulting services from the Maine Municipal Association, they will ask $1,200 for advertising and possible travel expenses. They said they would not necessarily spend the full amount.

COUNTY G.O.P. DINNER

State Sen. Jane A. Amero (R-Cape Elizabeth) will be the featured speaker at the July monthly meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee to be held at the North Waterford Church, Routes 35 and 5, on Wednesday, July 26, beginning with a social hour at 6 p.m.

There will be a supper at $5 per person served by the North Waterford Church at 7 p.m. followed by Amero's presentation and a brief business meeting. A native of Rumford, Amero is the assistant majority leader of the Maine Senate and is one of the Republican party's most visible spokespersons in Maine.

A representative from the Dole campaign is also expected to be present as well. All Republicans are cordially invited to attend. For further information, please call Waterford County Committeeman Norman Rust at 583-4688 or Oxford County Republican chairman Stan Howe at 824-2291.

GREENWOOD HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETING

Those who have volunteered to be present at the building on Saturday afternoons is as follows: July 8 -- Joyce and Ellsworth Hathaway; July 15 and 22 -- Margaret and Blaine Mills; July 29 -- Joyce and Ellsworth Hathaway; Aug. 5 -- Jeannette and Mellen Kimball.

A pot luck supper will precede the next meeting at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 2.

From the Bethel Police log:

Bird Hill shooter warned

On July 2 at 4:40 p.m. a Bird Hill resident reported someone at the residence next door had been firing weapons all day. He was concerned because a similar incident last year had resulted in his house being struck several times. The subject firing the shots was given a verbal warning for disorderly conduct, and was advised of the consequences of further complaints. The subject said no more shots would be fired.

Monday, July 3

At 5:20 p.m. a complainant at a lower Main St. business reported a subject whose vehicle had been there a long time. She said she was closing the office and would like an officer there. On arrival, police spoke with the subject, whose vehicle was broken down. He was waiting for family members to help him.

At 11:01 p.m. a Mechanic St. resident reported several subjects making loud, obscene noises. She said they were holding baseball bats and screwdrivers, and making some types of threats. The caller had also received several harassing phone calls. While a police officer was meeting with the complainant, the phone rang again and the officer answered. He told the caller to stop, but she called two more times while he was there. The officer then went to the caller's residence and told her to stop calling or face charges of harassment by telephone. She said she would stop calling.

Wednesday, July 5

At 7:55 p.m. a Maine State Police officer requested assistance with a motor vehicle stop of a reported stolen vehicle on Route 26. A felony stop was conducted. It was later learned the vehicle was not the stolen one. The two subjects were released.

Thursday, July 6

At 9:30 a.m. A Swan's Hill Road resident reported that for several nights there had been several subjects making loud noises, and it had been going on for some time. She requested police watch for it and patrol the area. Police planned to increase patrol.

Friday, July 7

At 1:45 p.m. a Chandler Hill Road resident reported a vehicle might be doing dangerous things to the road. Police checked and found one spot which was very soft, due to the heat. No vehicles were in the area. Extra patrol was requested.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

Augusta Roll Call Report

By STEVEN STYCO

SENATE

ROLL CALL ATTENDANCE: Percentage of roll call votes for which the senator was present through June 29, a total of 188 votes.

1. LINE ITEM VETO: 6/5/95 vote on LD 1003, sponsored by Rep. George Kerr (D-Old Orchard Beach), to propose a constitutional amendment to voters to give the governor a line item veto. The amendment will allow the governor to veto specific spending items within a bill without vetoing the entire bill. Those vetoes could then be overridden by a majority of the House and Senate. Supporters say the line item veto will reduce wasteful state spending, but opponents say it gives the governor too much power at the expense of the legislature. The bill required a two-thirds vote and passed 20-8.

3. KILL PARENTAL NOTIFICATION OF ABORTION: 5/16/95 vote to kill LD 633, sponsored by Rep. Douglas Ahearn (D-Madawaska) to require a woman under 18 to notify her parents 24 hours before having an abortion. Supporters say parents deserve a chance to talk with their daughter before she decides to have an abortion, but opponents say it interferes with a woman's right to choose to have an abortion. The bill was killed 22-12. A "no" vote is a vote in support of the bill.

3. KILL 24-HOUR WAIT BEFORE ABORTION: 6/27/95 vote to kill LD 630, sponsored by Rep. Ahearn, for a doctor to inform a woman of the alternatives to abortion, the age of the fetus and the health risks of abortion, twenty-four hours before performing an abortion. The bill also requires doctors to publicly disclose the numbers of abortions they perform. Supporters say the bill is necessary to insure a woman makes an informed decision before choosing to have an abortion. Opponents say it interferes with a woman's right to choose to have an abortion and the disclosure provision would subject doctors to harassment. The bill was killed 22-10. A "no" vote is a vote for the bill.

4. COMMISSION ON TAKINGS: 6/27/95 vote on LD 1217 as amended by the judiciary committee, to appoint a study commission on takings legislation. The original bill called for the government to purchase property whenever a state or local regulation reduced its value by more than 50 percent. (see House vote No. 4 below) Supporters of the commission say it is necessary to study a complex and potentially far-reaching law. The original bill's strongest supporters opposed the commission as a maneuver to avoid the issue. The commission bill passed 28-6. This was the only Senate roll call on the takings issue.

5. LEGISLATORS SELECT ENDANGERED SPECIES: 6/28/95 vote on LD 428, sponsored by Sen. Chuck Cianchette (D-Somerset), to require the legislature to make additions and deletions from the state endangered-species list. Cianchette says the legislation stemmed from a fear that future land development would be prevented by endangered species designation as occurred with the spotted owl in the state of Washington. Elected legislators, he says, should make those decisions, not administrators. Opponents say there is no problem with current law and that changes in the endangered species list, which currently includes 12 animals, should be made by professional biologists and based on science, not politics. The bill passed 19-16.

6. BUDGET WITH INCOME TAX CUT: 6/29/95 vote on the state budget. This vote, one of several on the budget, is the last Senate roll call before Gov. Angus King withdrew his veto threat (see story above). Opponents to the budget objected to the income tax cut, to start in 1998 if income tax revenues exceed 1997 levels. They say capping tax revenues three years in advance without knowing future spending needs or identifying programs to cut is irresponsible. Supporters say state revenue must be cut to force the legislature to cut spending and argue that a tax cut will stimulate the Maine economy. Because a two-thirds vote is needed for passage, the budget failed 19-15.

7. THREE-YEAR CAP ON WELFARE BENEFITS: 6/28/95 vote on an alternative welfare bill pushed by Sen. Joan Pendexter (R-Cumberland) to limit most welfare recipients to three years of benefits and establish stiffer work requirements than Gov. King's bill. Supporters say welfare should have limits, but opponents say the cutoff would have forced recipients onto general assistance and increased property taxes. They also urge King's approach be tried first. The bill failed 17-18.

8. NO EXTRA WELFARE FOR NEW KIDS: 6/29/95 vote on an alternative welfare proposal pushed by Sen. Pendexter to prohibit welfare recipients from receiving additional money if they have another child. Pendexter says the change will discourage welfare recipients from having more children. Opponents counter cutting AFDC benefits will harm children to punish the parent and that the change might encourage abortions. The proposal failed 17-18.

9. GRANDFATHER LOBSTERMEN WITH MORE THAN 1,200 POTS: 6/27/95 vote on an amendment, offered by Sen. David Carpenter (D-York), to the lobster management bill (LD 782) (see House vote No. 9).

HOUSE

ROLL CALL ATTENDANCE: Percentage of votes for which the representative was present through June 29, a total of 272 votes.

1. LINE ITEM VETO: 6/6/95 vote on LD 1003 (see Senate vote No. 1 above). Because it is a proposed constitutional amendment, this bill needed a two-thirds vote for passage. June 5 the House failed by three votes to pass the bill, but this second attempt succeeded by just winning the 96 required votes. The bill passed 96-47.

2. KILL PARENTAL NOTIFICATION OF ABORTION: 6/15/95 vote on LD 633 (see Senate vote No. 2 above). The bill was killed 81-63. A "no" vote is a vote for the bill.

3. KILL 24-HOUR WAIT BEFORE ABORTION: 6/15/95 vote on LD 630 (see Senate vote No. 3 above). The bill was killed 84-53. A "no" vote is a vote for the bill.

4. TAKINGS BILL: 6/27/95 vote on LD 1217, sponsored by Rep. Edward Dexter (R-Kingfield), to increase the instances when state government must compensate property owners for "taking" property. Dexter's bill requires the state to pay property owners whenever new laws or regulations decrease property value by 50 percent. Instances when a new law or regulation, when combined with previous regulations, decrease property value by 50 percent are also included. Supporters say property owners should be compensated when zoning and wetlands regulations restrict property use. Opponents say the law will stop new land-use regulations and tie up the court system. Dexter's bill failed 63-81. The House and Senate supported a study commission of the issue.

5. LEGISLATORS SELECT ENDANGERED SPECIES: 6/29/95 vote on LD 428 (see Senate vote No. 5 above). The bill passed 106-37.

6. BUDGET WITH INCOME TAX CUT: 6/29/95 vote on the state budget. This vote was the last House roll call vote on the budget before Gov. King announced his willingness to sign a budget with the income tax cut. The budget passed 134-11. (Unlike Senate Democrats, House Democrats overwhelmingly supported the budget unanimously approved by the appropriations committee.)

7. THREE-YEAR CAP ON WELFARE BENEFITS: 6/28/95 vote on an amendment to LD 1496, proposed by Rep. Robert Winglass (R-Auburn), to limit most welfare recipients to three years of benefits. (see Senate vote No. 7 above) The amendment was defeated 55-78.

8. KILL AMENDMENT TO PROHIBIT EXTRA WELFARE FOR NEW KIDS: 6/28/95 vote on an amendment to LD 1496, proposed by Rep. Winglass to prohibit additional welfare payments for children born to a mother already on welfare. (see Senate No. 8 vote above) The amendment was killed 84-40. A "no" vote is a vote for the amendment.

9. LOBSTER MANAGEMENT BILL: 6/29/95 vote on LD 782, sponsored by Rep. Chester Rice (R-South Bristol) to manage lobster fishing within state waters (three miles from shore).

Amy Hanscom will celebrate her 85th birthday at Rumford Community Home on July 14. To send her a card, the address is Mrs. Amy Hanscom, P.O. Box 430, Rumford, ME 04276.

Services at the Newry Community Church were performed July 2 at 9 a.m. with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and Marlene Wight at the piano. The Message of the Day was: "Freedom Through Faith," from Scriptures Romans 8:2, "For the law of the Spirit of Life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." Specials were read by Scott Wight on the Scriptures, and Gil Sealey "The Touch of the Master's Hand."

Theresa Toti of Harrisville, R.I., spent a few days with her aunt, Gil Sealey, here in North Newry. They toured the good eating places and enjoyed the Arts & Crafts display last Saturday on the Common, also took a ride to North Waterford and stopped at the Papoose Pond campground where Gretchen Straus devotes most of her time working, but that day she was not there, she was here in North Newry visiting with her father and mother, Bill and Sylvia Wight and bringing her daughter, Melissa back home.

Steve and Marlene Wight of Old Town spent the holiday weekend with his parents, Sylvia and Bill Wight. Also, Gretchen, their daughter and Melissa, their grandchild joined them for a cookout on Sunday.

Did anyone around here notice the Atlanta Spaceman in the southwest sky last week on the 30th around 8:45 p.m.? Theresa and I did.

Radishes, radishes... Did you know that radishes come from way back in early pyramid builders in 7700 B.C. It is a good source of vitamin B complex and C and A. Radishes are chiefly eaten for the roots, but tops or greens are eight times higher in vitamins A...It can be cooked with other greens like spinach, kale, dandelions, beet greens or Swiss chard. It is delicious and highly nutritive. Have some. Try it. You might like it.

Dick and Betsy Clark went to Concord, N.H. with gifts and flowers for Dick's mother's 90th birthday recently. We wish you health and happiness. Edna Clark and many more years.

Karlene Bachelier, Betsy Clark and Gil Sealey stopped in at Rona's one day last week and saw her looking optimistic and cheerful. Her daughter, Christine brought her here for the day.

GEM SHOW CROWD DOWN A BIT
The 34th annual Gem, Mineral and Jewelry Festival, held over the weekend at Telstar, drew more than 1,000 attendees. The number was down a bit from last year, according to organizers, but plans are already in the works to return next year -- the fifth consecutive year the festival will be held at Telstar. Among those attending (right) was a fossilized pod of prehistoric cephalopods. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

Howdy, folks. This is the third day of July and what a beautiful day it is! Not as hot as in the past several days. I've been working in the garden for a while each morning, but when it begins to get hot enough to turn one into a greasy spot, I have to head for the shade. When several years younger I could take any amount of hot sunshine, but not in my golden years.

Monday evening, Peggy and Lettie Brooks attended a committee meeting for the proposed Grange Musical Supper, which will be held on Aug. 22 at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills. The American Legion will host a Musical Supper in July and one the first part of August.

Tuesday evening, Peggy and I attended Oxford Pomona Grange, hosted by Pleasant Valley Grange of West Bethel, and what a beautiful supper they prepared. Our attendance was very small, and I can't imagine why because the weather was ideal for the occasion.

Peggy's daughter Myrna and husband Whitey came on Wednesday to mow the lawns. Peggy always has a nice dinner for them to help pay them for coming up to do all of the mowing.

We left quite early Thursday morning to go to Goss's Berry Farm, out of Mechanic Falls, where we picked three big flats of strawberries. We found nice berries and good picking. There was some grass and weeds among the berries, but not enough to make much difference. If you are looking for a place to pick strawberries, give it a try.

After supper Thursday evening, we went to the Norway hospital to visit Althea Fish of Dixfield. She is recovering from a hip joint replacement and seemed to be doing fine. Althea is a Grange friend, and has joined the rest of us good people at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond.

Late in the afternoon on Friday, Doc Merrill of South Paris picked us up and we all attended the 50th Wedding Anniversary for Richard and Barbara Felt at Woodstock Elementary School. This was an anniversary to be remembered. Over 200 people signed the guest book, and what a good time was had by all! Their daughter Sharon and granddaughter Jenny had really gone all out. They had food enough to feed nearly 300 people, I would dare say. Felt's Orchestra furnished lots of good music and lots of people danced on the rug-covered floor. It seemed good to see Barbara out and enjoying herself. She seldom leaves home, so this anniversary party was an unusual outing for her.

Peggy and friend Doc Merrill of South Paris attended the dance at West Paris Grange Hall Saturday evening. There will be another dance there on July 15, to benefit the Sportsmen's Club. Yesterday, we had lunch with Loretta and Emerson Merrill in West Bethel. We visited Althea Fish again after supper on Sunday evening. She is doing well and was real cheerful, like her old self again. Tammy Farnum of Bryant Pond called on Mary Lovejoy a few times last week.

Alan Lovejoy of Oxford spent Sunday with the Lovejoy family. Mary Lovejoy and Kathleen Holden attended the 50th Wedding Anniversary Party for the Richard Felt.

Archie Lovejoy is on his summer vacation from Chadbourne's Mill, but Mary says that it is a "work vacation" for him.

Well, folks, I haven't checked the garden yet this morning, but if the absence of potato bugs, woodchucks and deer in my garden continue, I'll have time for more news next week.

East Stoneham

by Eleanore Nelson

Dennis McAlister worked for Albert Nelson Sr. at Dr. Prien's pruning trees one day this week. Eric and Troy Nelson worked for their grandfather, Albert Nelson Sr., several days mowing cemeteries.

Cheryl and Paul Barnard and Joshua, Jenna and Lindsey and dog "Simba" from Seaford, Va., arrived on Sunday to spend a week with her parents, Albert and Eleanore Nelson.

Sharon and Abdul Traish and Aisha, Jaffer, Nawal and bird "Sim-Sim" arrived from Belmont, Mass., to spend time at their cottage at Lake Keewaydin.

Monica and Ed Spooner and dog from Auburn have been spending time at the Littlefield camp for a vacation a few days. I guess everyone is at their camp during the Fourth of July week if possible.

Eric Nelson and friends went to the Nelson camp at Wilsons Mills and to the fireworks at Rangleley. He tells us there is more and more logging going on on "our" road. It just won't be the same any more, but what is the same anyway?

The Lovell Library hosted a public Pancake Breakfast on Tuesday morning and also a flea market which was very well attended. Of course I bought stuff not needed, but it was fun anyway, and the kids got things which made it all worthwhile.

Tuesday evening there were fireworks at Naples and other places and the beano games were held here at the Rescue Barn, beginning at 7:30 p.m., and will be held every Tuesday during July and August. My "Lucky Duck" wasn't lucky again this week, so think I will leave it at home next week and see what happens. This is for a good cause, anyway. The rescue does good work and we are lucky to have it.

What a busy week, but sitting on the beach is restful and relaxing and a cool dip in the lake is always nice, especially with relatives and friends.

You know, I haven't seen so many ticks or fleas this year, so maybe the garlic powder on the dog's food really helps after all.

A couple of weeks ago, Paul Morton of Lovell was taken out to eat several times in one week and one of them was the East Stoneham Church supper. He always enjoys these outings and I heard he has been going to these suppers for 62 years. That proves a point, doesn't it? He knows what is good! By the way, the next supper will be July 20 and every two weeks thereafter.

Gladys Kilgore remains in the Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway and is gaining slowly from the fall at her home.

Our sympathy and prayers are with the family of Priscilla Millett, who passed away last week. She was always a sporty, jolly person and I remember her nice laugh. She will be greatly missed by family and friends.

West Paris

Miriam Inman

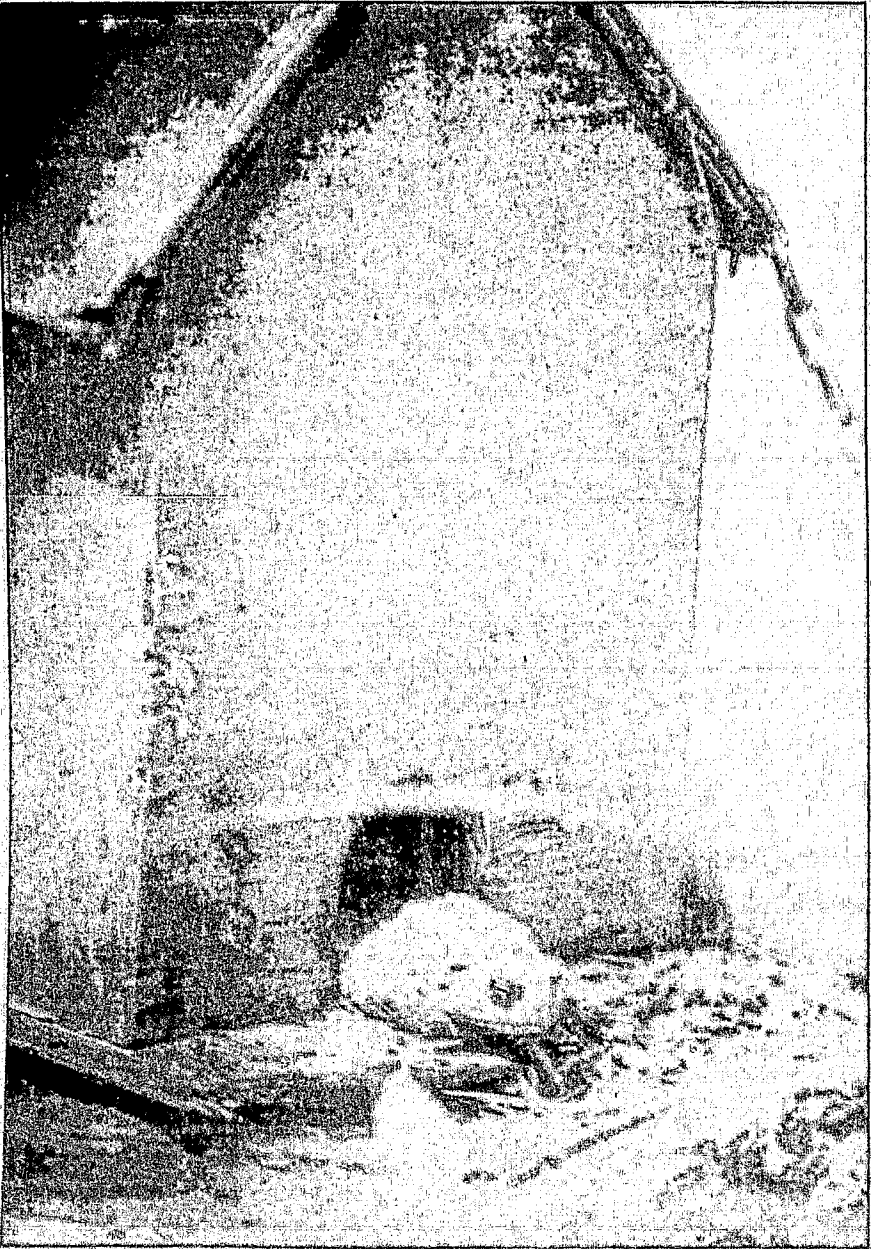

The West Paris Friends of the Library are still looking for book donations for their annual book sale, to be held on Aug. 12. They need more novels, how-to books, cookbooks, children's books, etc. If you don't plan to read it again, why not donate it to this book sale and make some room on your bookshelf for new additions? You may bring books to the library. Library hours are Monday 1:30 to 5 p.m.; Wednesday 1:30 to 7 p.m.; Friday 1:30 to 5 p.m. (or if you would like someone to pick them up call 674-3769). Sorry, no Reader's Digest condensed books.

Attention crafters and sellers of collectibles...once again the Friends invite you to set up a table at the book sale. They'd like to have something of interest to all passersby. There will be no table fees, but a small donation would be appreciated. For more information, call Patty Makley at 674-3769 or Ida Gurney at 674-3885. The Friends are also looking for bakers of all ages to make delicious contributions. Please consider making your specialty to tempt the sale customers. Let Patty or Ida know what you are bringing.

Circle Aug. 12 on your calendar for books at bargain prices, bakery and crafts at the West Paris Library. The rain date is August 19.

A colorful book banner is on display in the library this summer. It was made by Mr. Burke's third-grade class with the help of Mrs. Makley, parent volunteer. Students illustrated one of their favorite books and then transferred the drawings to fabric. Please stop by the library on Rte. 19 in West Paris village, to see this banner. The children's drawings are really lively and beautiful.

WAITING FOR LUNCH—While frogs will show off their athletic talents in the jumping contest on Mollycodd Day, it's their toad cousins who have the taste for the finer things in life. This one has taken up residence in an old bird house in Dotty Duddy's rock garden in Albany. Here, he sits in his doorway, on the watch for unsuspecting insects.

Bahre auto collection on display Saturday

The once-a-year public showing of the Bahre family collection of some 60 classic autos will highlight the 17th Founders Day celebration at Paris Hill on Saturday, July 15.

The event also includes an antique and crafts fair on the village green, tours of the old stone jail house now housing the Hamlin Museum, and a number of entertainment acts.

The auto collection, rated among the top dozen private collections in the world, has been built by Paris Hill resident and businessman Robert P. Bahre over the past 30 years. Cars range from a 1901 Orient to a 1991 Mercedes Benz.

In between is what car buffs regard as the best collection of vintage Packards ever assembled, six of a particularly rare series of nine Duesenbergs, one of only two dozen Tuckers ever built, a Thomas Flyer, vintage Cadillac, Rolls Royces and Stutz Bearcats. Among the most unique are the Packard convertible given Clark Gable by Jean Harlow in 1932, and a gold plated Rolls Royce once used by the British Royal family. Many of the cars have similar distinctive histories.

Founders Day marks the only public opening of the collection. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Proceeds ($5 for adults, $2 for children under 12) from the showing benefits the Hamlin Memorial Library and Museum.

The Library and Museum building, next door to the Bahre Estate where the auto collection is permanently housed, was once the Oxford County Jailhouse. The building was built with huge granite slabs in 1822 and served as a jail until 1896. In 1902, Dr. Augustus C. Hamlin, nephew of Vice President and U.S. Senator Hannibal Hamlin, purchased and renovated the structure and gave it to the Paris Hill Library Association. The second floor of the building houses the collection of items relating to the history of Paris Hill.

Founders Day is an occasion for between 40 and 50 craftsmen and antique dealers to show and sell their wares in displays on the Village Green. Among items for sale will be early American and country antiques, collectibles, baskets, baby and adult clothing, books, paintings, knitted items, needlework, floral arrangements, quilts and quilted goods, photographs, dolls and doll clothing.

In the event of rain, Founders Day will be rescheduled for Sunday, July 16.

Tougher drunk-driving penalties adopted

Maine's fight against drinking and driving will be tougher and more effective thanks to a new law developed by Secretary of State Bill Diamond's OUI Task Force and recently adopted by the Legislature.

"The members of the Task Force worked very hard on this package of improvements and we're all going to be safer on the road because of their effort," said Secretary Diamond, who established the group and charged them with reviewing Maine's OUI laws.

"This will put Maine back in the forefront of fighting drinking and driving," said Secretary Diamond. "This is going to be a tough, effective law."

The new law -- which increases penalties and introduces a variety of innovations to Maine's OUI enforcement effort -- was adopted as part of the emergency state budget in late June. That means the new OUI laws are now in effect.

Research by the OUI Task Force, which Secretary Diamond convened in early 1994, showed that the rate of OUI related fatalities in Maine declined during the 1980s. The rate of OUI fatalities in Maine fell from a high of 60 percent of all fatalities in 1981 to just 32.5 percent of all fatalities in 1989. But that rate had crept back to 40 percent of all fatalities in 1993.

"That was still lower than the national average, but it was going in the wrong direction," said Secretary Diamond. The national rate of alcohol related fatalities was 43 percent of all fatalities in 1993. "The Task Force members said it was time for Maine to improve its OUI effort. The title of their report was 'The Time Has Come.'"

The OUI Task Force proposal was sponsored in the Legislature by Speaker of the House Dan A.

Gwadnosky and cosponsored by 54 other legislators, including President of the Maine Senate Jeffrey H. Butland.

"The support of those legislators and leaders certainly helped make sure this issue received some attention," said Secretary Diamond. "They held long public hearings and several work sessions before adopting this proposal. The Legislature's support made it possible for Maine to improve highway safety with this new law."

Among other safety improvements, the enhanced OUI law:

-- Extends the period of time for calculating repeat offenses to 10 years, instead of six years.

-- Increases minimum mandatory fines for OUI offenses. For example, fines for first offenses increase to $400 from $300. Fourth offense fines increase to $3,000 from $1,000.

-- Provides for the Secretary of State to establish an Ignition Interlock program. Ignition interlock devices prevent a person from starting or operating a motor vehicle based on blood alcohol content. This voluntary program would enable some OUI offenders to shorten their license suspension if they install an interlock device in their vehicle.

-- Stiffens penalties for OUI offenders who cause serious bodily injury.

-- Adopts a "zero tolerance" standard of 0.00 percent blood alcohol content for adult OUI offenders during the period they are operating with a conditional license. First time offenders have a conditional license for one year after the license is reinstated. Repeat offenders have a conditional license for 10 years. The previous limit for these drivers was 0.05 percent BAC.

-- Increases minimum license suspensions for OUI offenses. For example, third offense suspensions increase to four years from two years.

-- Allows law enforcement officials to seize and hold a motor vehicle for at least eight hours when a driver is arrested for OUI.

-- Increases minimum mandatory jail sentences for OUI offenses. For example, the minimum sentence for a fourth offense increases to six months from 30 days.

-- Provides for tougher penalties for drivers who refuse to submit to an OUI test and are subsequently convicted of OUI.

-- Requires the permanent revocation of a drivers license for OUI offenders who are convicted of vehicular homicide. The current law requires a five-year revocation. The proposal does not change jail sentencing provisions for people convicted of this crime.

-- Toughens penalties for operating after suspension when the suspension is OUI related.

In addition to these changes, the OUI Task Force also recommended that underage drivers be held to a "zero tolerance" standard for drinking and driving. That provision was adopted separately by the legislature.

The Task Force further recommended future consideration of lowering Maine's legal blood alcohol content limit to 0.05 percent BAC for all adult drivers. The current standard is 0.08 percent BAC.

"We will continue to look at lowering the limit and may come back with recommendations in the future," said Secretary Diamond. "There was significant support to lower the limit this year, so we'll definitely continue to look at what is the most appropriate level."

THE 100-YEAR-OLD CAST IRON WATERING TROUGH that used to sit at the intersection of Main and Railroad streets in Bethel has been restored and moved to the Bethel Common. The trough had been broken into several pieces, the victim over the years of cars and snowplows. It had also been encased in about 1,000 pounds of concrete and steel in an effort to protect it from vehicles. Hanover Iron Works did the repair work, financed by the Bethel Rotary Club. The concrete and steel were removed, holes were filled, and the ball was added to the top, in place of the original glass light globe. Here, the 1,500-pound trough is lowered into place by contractor Denny Wilson's crew.

News from

The Community Lakes Association

During Saturday's business meeting of the Community Lakes Association, which followed a discussion with local code enforcement officers Norm Putnam and Mark Stearns, the following motions were passed:

- Bylaw changes: Article 1, "Of Woodstock and Greenwood" was dropped from the title of the organization in order to include Songo Pond in Albany Township. Article 11, Dues of $10 shall be paid annually rather than "on or before the annual meeting." Article VI, Neither of the officers or representatives (two) from each township, is required to be a lake shore property owner.

- Paula Wheeler reported on the activities of the Education Committee. A new activity this summer will be information concerning the lakes to be published weekly in the "Bethel Citizen." Several members offered to send in these pieces of information.

- The group voted to hire Scot Williams, aquatic biologist, to test South, Round, Indian and Songo ponds this year and Christopher, Twitchell, and North Ponds in 1996.

- Jim Chandler reported on the results of Williams' testing of North Pond, Sept. 4, 1994. The results of the test were overall encouraging, and copies of the report may be inspected at either the Greenwood or Woodstock Town Office.

New Business:

Election of Officers: president, Nancy Willard; vice president, Deborah Weaver; secretary, Lois Ruff; treasurer, Ellie Andrews; representatives, Albany Township, Paula Wheeler; Greenwood, Kelly Bickford, At Large, Jim DeNormandie. Representatives who continue to serve out terms are Greenwood, Jon DeNormandie; Woodstock, Bob Gunderson and Jim Chandler.

Kelly Bickford plans to organize a watershed survey of Twitchell Pond in the spring of 1996.

July 16-22 is Lake Awareness Week. Several members volunteered to meet at 10 a.m. at the boat facility, Lake Christopher, to do a lake clean-up project. Canoes and boats will be available. Anyone wishing to join in is most welcome. The association also encourages everyone on or near a pond to be aware of trash and debris and hope for their help in keeping all our ponds clean.

After the meeting Jim Chandler took members on a tour of the Maine Conservation School campus and pointed out some very successful erosion control projects that were done last summer.

To join the Lakes Association please send $10 to Box 11-2, Bryant Pond, Me., 04219

MOLLYCKETT MAGIC
The Mahoosuc Arts Council will sponsor a performance by comedy magician Bruce McKenzie Johnson on Mollyockett Day, July 15, 1 p.m., on the Bethel common. Bruce McKenzie Johnson performs a show filled with stand-up comedy, audience participation and some of the world's most amazing illusions. Johnson, who is a Maine native, has appeared at some of the premier theaters, clubs and shows in the country including the Magic Castle in Hollywood, The New England Vaudeville Festival and on network television in "America's Funniest People." In 1982 he was chosen as a Gold Medal Finalist by the International Brotherhood of Magicians, and he is also a graduate of The Chavez College of Magic, the only sleight-of-hand school of its kind in the world.

Backcountry medicine course offered

The Sunday River Resort will sponsor an intensive backcountry medical training course in Bethel from Aug. 8 to 16. The course will show students how to deal with medical emergencies when they are miles from help.

Wilderness medicine differs from traditional first aid in three respects. First, transport times are measured in hours and days rather than minutes, so many phases of patient care that usually occur in a hospital must be carried out in the field. Second, severe environments dramatically increase the complexity of any emergency and heighten risks to patient and rescuers alike. Third, limited equipment makes improvisation and resourcefulness essential skills.

These issues and more will be addressed by professional instructors from Wilderness Medical Associates of Bryant Pond.

During the eight-day course, instructors will provide instruction allowing even inexperienced backcountry rescue personnel to become technically competent in the field, whether the field is a national park or the high seas.

Classes are fast paced with an emphasis on practical skills. Mornings are devoted to lectures, while afternoons and evenings are spent outside working on everything from litter construction to full-scale rescue simulations. At least three realistic simulations, complete with fake wounds and stage blood, will be conducted. All simulations will be videotaped and debriefed for enhanced learning.

The course is recommended for all outdoor professionals and others who spend time in remote areas. Graduates will be nationally certified by Wilderness Medical Associates. Students can also be certified in the National Ski Patrol's Outdoor Emergency Care course if they plan to pursue ski patrol activities.

FROM THE

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The Sixth Annual Bethel Art Fair was a great event. The chamber wishes to thank all those who had anything to do with its success including all the program sponsors and donors. A special thanks to Rene McGrew, who chaired the Art Fair Committee and who donated framing for both of our raffle prizes. Also thanks to Gail Giarusso and Angela Farnum who donated art and to all those who volunteered prior to and on the day of the fair. Thanks to Sunday River for the tent and to the crew who put it up and took it down and to the Mahoosuc Arts Council who supplied the beautiful George York sculpture which decorated our common. Congratulations to the following artists who were chosen by the judges Romeo and Jo Baker for prizes: First place, William Randall of Harrison; second place, Irene Duplessis of Wales; third place, Jeannette Heath of Peru. In the children's category: First place, Chris Bove of Bethel and second place, Lorenzo Baker of Bethel.

The Sixth Annual McDonald's/Jordan's Bethel Area Chamber Golf Classic was held Tuesday, July 11, at the Bethel Inn and Country Club. We hosted 145 golfers for a full field and it was a very successful day for the chamber. Many thanks to all who made this possible. Thanks especially go to George Driscoll and Art Marshall, the co-chairs of the event and committee members Mark Mallory, Bob Laux, Bill Brown, Tom Richardson and Heime Merrill, to the Bethel Inn for hosting us and to Jeff Sterling from Sunday River who again did our sign and program.

The board of directors will meet this week for our regularly scheduled meeting. Last month, our president for the past two and a half years, Linda Varrell, handed the gavel to our new president Lois Ruff, who will be presiding over this month's meeting. Congratulations to Linda for her success as president and best wishes to Lois in the coming year.

GRAY WILDLIFE PROGRAMS

A summer series of wildlife programs for the general public have started on Sundays at the Gray Game Farm and Visitors Center, located on Route 26 in Gray.

Programs on consecutive Sundays in July, August and into September will be offered twice each day, rain or shine, at 1 to 3 p.m., and will be free to those who have already paid their regular admission fee.

July 9, learn about the natural history of wolves and where wild populations still exist in North America with the Maine Wolf Coalition. Remember "Little Red Riding Hood," "The Three Little Pigs," and "Peter and the Wolf"? Come learn the truth about wolves and why people shouldn't be afraid of them.

July 16, Maury Mills from the Moosehorn Wildlife Refuge will present a program about Maine's bald eagles. Bald eagles are our national symbol, yet they have been an endangered species for many years. Maine's population of bald eagles has recovered tremendously since the 1960s with protection of the birds, and their traditional nesting sites and habitats. Come learn more about this powerful bird, and observe a live eagle.

July 23, presenter Don Oufette, from the Insect and Disease Lab of the Department of Conservation will talk about "Small Creatures -- the Insects of Maine." What is the difference between an insect and a spider? All you have to do is count the number of legs each "bug" has! How sharp an explorer are you? Could you find a leaf chewer, a nectar drinker, a flying hunter, a stink bug or a spider? Come learn about insects and spiders, examine preserved insect specimens then go for a hike to collect and identify common bugs found in Maine.

July 30, Thomas Ewing, of Coveside Conservation Products will present a program called "Bats: Myths and Reality," in which he will talk about the natural history and life cycles of bats, their status in Maine, and their importance within our ecosystem. Maine is home to several species of bats, some of which are on Maine's endangered species list. Can they actually catch up to 3,000 mosquitoes in one night? Are they true hibernators? Find out more about bats, their natural history, and how you can attract them to your yards and gardens for natural bug control.

August programs will include sessions on Maine black bears, have a wildlife photographer present "Tips on Wildlife Photography," "Search and Rescue and Agility Dog" demonstrations, and at the end of the month, host a "Raptors and Repiles" presentation by the Center For Wildlife and take a look at the adjacent Dry Mills Fish Hatchery.

And on Saturdays at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., a much-asked-for program is now provided -- "Guided Wildlife Exhibit Tours" of the Gray Game Farm, presented by volunteers from the Friends of the Game Farm organization. Learn more about the individual animals and birds, why they reside at the facility in captivity, their natural history in the wild, and some of the wildlife management programs the Department of Fish and Wildlife administers in Maine.

For more information about any of these programs, please call Augusta Fish and Wildlife headquarters at 287-5244.

AUCTION AT THE WILHELM REICH MUSEUM

The Wilhelm Reich Museum's giant auction will take place at its conference building on Dodge Pond Road in Rangeley on Saturday, July 15 at 10 a.m. Auctioneer Ed Inness will officiate, and there will be fun and treasures for everyone at this annual fundraising event.

Auction items, donated by individuals and local businesses, include antiques, clothes and hats, clocks, silver goblets, brass coffee urn, Japanese porcelain "Moriage" vase and stopper, pewter sets, porcelain collectibles, hand painted trays, fur jackets, dinners from local restaurants, ski parka, movie rentals, gift certificates, two nights at a local campground, bird seed, lube, oil and filter change, hand-tied flies, and much, much more. If anyone has a special item they would like to contribute, it will be most welcome.

During the auction, hamburgers, hot dogs, lobster rolls, crab rolls, beverages, fruit cup, and strawberry shortcake will be served by People's Choice Restaurant. There will also be a small cash bar.

Items will be available for viewing at 9 a.m. on Saturday. Auction will take place rain or shine.

For additional information contact 207-864-3443.

CHAIR CANING OFFERED

The Sabbathday Shaker Museum in New Gloucester will offer a chair caning workshop on Saturday, July 22, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Participants will learn the seven-step method of chair caning to fix those chairs with broken seats that have been gathering dust in the attic.

Participants should bring a chair that is clean and sound. This class is restricted to hand-woven chairs. For more information or registration, please contact the Shaker Museum at 926-4597.

KAYAK LESSONS

The Bethel Recreation Board will offer kayaking lessons at Songo Pond on Aug. 1, 2 and 3 from 6 to 8 p.m. Participants must be entering the eighth grade and older to be eligible. Adults are urged to sign up if interested. This program is limited to 10 people, so register early to ensure a spot (fee, $5). Registration and waiver forms are available at the Town Office.

ASK A LAWYER

I am writing my last will and testament, and need to know the important considerations. Must a will be witnessed and/or notarized to be binding? I am also concerned about common-law marriages in Maine.

The first decision you must make is to select people to do certain jobs regarding your will. If you have children under 18, you should name a guardian whom you trust to live with and take care of them. You should also choose a "personal representative" (formerly called an executor) of your estate. This person files papers with the Probate Court after your death and distributes the property as you determine in your will. This, too, should be someone you trust, and who manages money well.

You must also make decisions about your property. Remember, some property, such as that which you hold as a joint tenant with others and some life insurance benefits, are not controlled by your will. If you decide that someone to whom you want to leave property is not able to handle it well, you may want to put his or her share in a trust. In that case you name a trustee who holds the money or property and either gives it to the beneficiary or pays the beneficiary's expenses, according to your instructions.

In Maine a will must be in writing and signed by the maker, or by someone else in the maker's presence and at the maker's direction. It does not have to be witnessed if it is written in the maker's own handwriting. A typed or printed will must be signed by two witnesses to the maker's signing. It does not have to be notarized, but a notarized will is more difficult to challenge in Probate Court. You should certainly have your will witnessed and notarized.

There is no common-law marriage in Maine. Nevertheless, Maine will consider a couple married if they come from a state where they would be recognized as married under common law rules.

"Ask a Lawyer" is published in cooperation with this paper and the Maine State Bar Association. The views expressed in this column are those of the author. Lawyers answer questions on subjects of general interest. The column is meant as general information and should not be relied upon for advice in a specific case. For individual advice, consult your own attorney. If you do not have an attorney and believe you need legal advice, contact the Maine Lawyer Referral and Information Service at 622-1460. This month's question was answered by Matthew E. Pollack, of Pollack & Quirion, PA, Topsham.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN UNITED

The Christian Women United will hold its monthly meeting at the Country Way Restaurant in South Paris on Tuesday, July 18. The meal will be served at 11:30 a.m.

Those who have not been contacted but would like a reservation may call Leora Whitney at 743-7221 or Pearl Anderson at 743-5724 by Friday, July 14.
